“ George and I met in junior high school when we were 13. We became friends and later, best friends. This friendship continued for 56 years and was only rudely interrupted because of his untimely passing. George was one of the kindest people that I have ever met in my life. My family loved him and accepted him as one of our own and his family showed the same love and affection to us. George and I shared lots of laughter and enjoyed each other's company immensely. After emigrating to Canada, he settled in Toronto and us in Vancouver. But we kept in touch by telephone and emails on a regular basis, sometimes twice a week. George and I met 3 more times after immigration, twice in Toronto and once in California. I wish we had the opportunity to live in the same city and see each other more often as we were getting older. George was a selfless man and he sacrificed his personal life to take care of his mother and sister. He never complained of life's hardships and always had a delightful or funny statement to make an undesirable situation pleasant. I miss George a lot. I wish him peace and happiness in his reincarnation. My sincere condolences to Mayellian family.

“ George was one of my father's best friends. He visited our house in Tehran a few times a week when I was a child. He took me to a park near our house to play in the children's playground facilities and showed his love and dedication to our family unconditionally. George and my father, Shahrokh, shared many laughs and enjoyed each other's company very much. I loved "uncle George" because he paid loving attention to me and treated me like a member of his own family. I met him again in Toronto in 1990, after both our families emigrated to Canada and again in California in 2009 when I had become an adult. I felt the same love and affection from uncle George as before. My father always told stories of his friendship with uncle George, their common friends and the importance of true friendship in a person's life. I miss uncle George and I know that my father misses him more. My sincere condolences to Uncle George's family for their loss. May he rest in peace.

George, I never forget your kindness, your smile and the love and support you showed me when I married your best friend. I was new in Tehran and very nervous to meet all his friends and family but you with your sense of humour put me at ease. You were always a phone call away to help me and listen to my complains. You went too soon. I still wanted to come and visit you with my children so you could tell them all the funny stories you know about their dad. I hope angles in heaven treat you right. Rest In Peace. George, my dear friend and big supporter when I had lost my two sisters within 8 months. Your big heart and kindness will never be forgotten. You are gone too soon..

I feel sorry that my brother's sickness, death and my absence in US didn't give me a chance to be with you, while you might've needed my support.... ♥ R.I.P
