“ I have have many memories, but one comes to mind everytime i hear an ac/dc song... I remember when i bought a 30 pack of Tecate and stopped by your apartment on the corner of olive. You drank 3 beers and I drank the other 27, played guitar hero all night and stacked the empty cans in a pyramid against the wall. That morning, flaps asked me for a ride to school, so i dropped him off then went home... When i got off the Golden State exit... My driver side tire popped and i spun in a completw circle and ended up on the side of the railroad tracks... Two chp's stopped and asked what happened and if i was ok... I knew i smelt like a brewery.... My mom came by and called the tow truck and when i stepped into her car she said i smelled like a beer can... Lol... So many memories/stories to be told... I miss you!!!

This is a bit uncouth, no? Especially considering Berry passed away in a car accident.
