After devoting 26 years to Livingston High, he retired this last June.

In his spare time, Louis loved gardening and was active with his children in Boy Scouts. He was an avid member of the First Presbyterian Church in Turlock.

“ Louis will be greatly missed by all that have worked with him and who were taught by him at Livingston High School. He was not only a coworker to me , he was a friend that I will never forget. He taught me and many students and adults the art of floral design.

“ I am very shocked and sad to hear of one of the sweetest Ag teachers leaving us. His mild manner and creativity made him stand out from most. He was always a an enthusiastic horticulturalist, inspiring his students to do more. You will be missed by all of us.

“ Mr. Randall was a very good man, I was a student of his and he wouldn't give up on me, and I could be a handful at the time, I'm glad that he took the time to teach me ornamental horticulture, I still remember a lot of what he taught me, thoughts and prayers to his family

“ I was a student of Mr. Randall's in high school all four years. I had moments of complaining about him but at the end of the day he taught me a lot and was there even after I graduated. He pushed me to do more than I realized at the time. I have a lot of memories of him from field days, to state convention and floral class my senior year. I still have my love for ffa and agriculture because of him. I'm forever grateful for the time I had him as his teacher and the times after. I hope the family takes comfort in knowing he made an impact on many students life's.

“ My siblings knew Mr. Randall when they went to Livingston and loved him because he was so nice, last year was my last year at Livingston and I would always see him because I was in FFA so I would always say hi and he would say “well hello Mr. Griffith” and anytime on FFA trips he would always tell everyone “be nice to Mr. Griffith, he’s a good kid” he was always so nice he will deeply be missed.
