

Sarkis Soomalan

July 10, 1947 - March 25, 2017

He was deeply loved by his wife Silvana as well as cherished by his three children Melissa, Melina and Maril, their spouses and his grandchildren. Although he departed too soon, he left a powerful legacy behind that will be told for generations to come. Sarkis will always be remembered as Gilgamesh and Shah Sargone Kabir. Both of these titles embody his truly remarkable character – one of sheer strength and resilience. His commanding nature was equally matched by his tender and generous heart. Sarkis's kindness and desire to elevate others has helped countless families live better lives. His wife and children, especially, vow to honor his memory, for he laid forth the foundation that upholds their success and, above all, their happiness. Papa, you will forever be in our hearts.
