“ I have so many fond memories of Uncle Bill. I'll remember Uncle Bill for the stories he used to share about buying and selling antiques. Even as a child I found his stories fascinating. He would tell about how he bought something for twenty-five cents at a yard sale and then sold it for $100 or more. I'll remember him coming to visit in his famous red and white truck and bringing fruit and vegetables to share. I'll remember him and mom telling stories of their childhood. His language was so entertaining when he was describing something that was just plain wrong. I'll remember Uncle Bill telling stories of his grandchildren and being so proud of them. A few years ago he was talking about being "ready for the marble forest." Uncle Bill had a good heart. He will truly be missed.
